

THE BIG COME-AT-THEATRE

Next Mayor Gives Convincing Reasons for His Election to That Office

His Declaration of Principles

Senator Sutherland Makes Brilliant Address Urging Salt Lake Citizens to Put an End to Strife.

JAMES D. MURDOCH'S DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES

I will to the best of my ability safeguard the interest of the people in so far as I am able with the assistance of the council and the heads of departments. There will be equal rights extended to all and special privileges to none.

I will endeavor to bring about competition in all classes of public contracts and beg to assure all bidders that they will receive fair and courteous treatment at my hands.

I favor public improvements of all kinds that will add to the comfort and improvement of this community. Every family in this city is justly entitled to a liberal supply of pure water. Cement sidewalks should and must be extended wherever the people desire them and are willing to furnish the money to pay the cost of constructing the same.

Sewers should and must be extended in all directions, and connections to same enforced, in order that the public health may not suffer and the ever-recurring periods when contagious diseases prevail in our fair city may be eliminated as far as possible.

I favor street paving wherever the abutters on the streets to be paved shall petition the city council to have the improvement made, in so far as the city is able to pay for its share of the improvement made.

I favor and will constantly endeavor to limit contracts, in size and extent, in order that the man or men with limited capital may have the opportunity to get their share of all public work and on all large jobs to so divide the work that parties equipped with tools and machinery to perform part of the work may come in competition with those who are prepared to do all the labor and furnish all the material to complete the same.

I cordially recommend the proposition now under consideration by the school board of this city, to build and equip a magnificent high school building that will be in harmony with the many grand school buildings we now possess, and be a source of delight and admiration to all friends of education at home as well as the admiration of all our visitors from abroad, and will gladly vote for bonds to build the same.

I condemn the methods heretofore in vogue of the party in power taking the initiative in inaugurating improvements without the knowledge and consent of property owners along the line of the proposed improvement and carried out with the purpose in view of furnishing favored contractors with large jobs at exorbitant prices, to the great injury of the taxpayers of Salt Lake.

I will extend the same courtesies to the man or men as I will to those of our citizens who may be better equipped with the necessities and the luxuries of everyday life, remembering always that I, too, have been a workman, and proud to acknowledge it.

I firmly believe that public office is a public trust and the acts of public men are fit subjects for public criticism. Public officers are the servants of the people and as such are responsible only to the people.

James D. Murdoch won his election as mayor of Salt Lake last night in a speech of thirty minutes at the Salt Lake theatre and Senator George Sutherland delivered a brilliant address which will go far towards getting the American party the defeat it deserves.

The occasion was a Republican rally which filled the theatre and was marked by outbursts of enthusiasm which sounded vociferously for the Republicans and guarantee of a business-like administration of the city affairs of Salt Lake.

James D. Murdoch, Republican candidate for mayor, presented facts and figures regarding the graft of American party misrule, which, by the most convincing argument possible for wrestling the power of robbery from the present administration and putting the government of Salt Lake into the hands of honest and capable business men.

For one-half hour, the next mayor of Salt Lake simply told the thousands of taxpayers how much had been stolen from them by the American party, giving specific instances by the score.

It was a story of bold and despicable robbery perpetrated by the American administration that has cost the thousands of taxpayers food for reflection until time for them to cast their ballots on November 2.

Senator George Sutherland's address was a masterpiece of strong argument in which he urged the citizens of Salt Lake to put an end to the conditions of strife existing in Salt Lake, which could only be done through the overthrow of the party conceived through the disappointed ambitions of one man, which originated from nowhere, was fed to nothing save its own narrowness and bigotry, and was bound for the place from whence it came.

The Salt Lake theatre had been beautifully decorated with American flags and pictures of President Taft; more flags being displayed than ever before seen in the old auditorium. Old Glory was displayed from every conceivable point of vantage, and immense flags were hung from the ceiling and others formed curtains for the boxes.

Large Crowd Present.

It was nearly 8:30 before the Taft Republican drum corps arrived, and there was only room on the lower floor for the musicians, who filed down to the two front rows and then proceeded to play while the ushers were seating the late comers.

Seated on the stage were some prominent citizens, including Senator George Sutherland, James D. Murdoch, James Devine, chairman of the meeting, Fred C. Leach, secretary of the meeting, Fred Jensen, secretary of the city committee, Colonel George B. Squires, Postmaster A. L. Thomas, Colonel M. M. Knight, Fred Pries, State Senator Carl A. Badger, H. L. Nelson and others.

Several selections were given by the drum corps, and a double quartette won merited applause singing "America," "The Promptly at the stroke of seven o'clock the reward of $500 is in effect, and Dolly Dimples will reappear at the corner of Main and Second South streets, between seven and eight o'clock in one of her disguises which has baffled some of the most illustrious sleuths on the continent. She will mingle freely with the assemblage, giving all a chance to apprehend her.

If you capture her The Herald-Republican will pay the following rewards:

$500 in GOLD if the captor shows Miss Dolly Dimples a receipt for subscription to The Herald-Republican paid up to October 15, 1910, and a copy of The Herald-Republican of the day's issue, and use the following words of identification: PARDON ME, YOU ARE THE MYSTERIOUS MISS DOLLY DIMPLES OF THE DAILY AND SUNDAY HERALD-REPUBLICAN.

If you have addressed Miss Dolly Dimples, using the exact words above given and hold to her view a paid-up receipt and copy of The Herald-Republican of the day's issue, she will at once admit her identity, take you to The Herald-Republican office and one of the above three rewards will be paid.

When you arrive at The Herald-Republican office you will be required to make an affidavit that you have been a resident of Utah for the past ninety days. The reward will not be paid to any outsider, but only to a bona fide resident of the state of Utah. This rule effectually prohibits any collusion and makes this contest of skill absolutely fair and above board.

Boys under 18 years of age are also prohibited from securing the reward and will not be recognized in the contest. The same rule applies to any person directly or indirectly connected with The Herald-Republican or any member of his or her family.

Here is a chance for some person to display cleverness and at the same time secure a free gift of one of the three rewards.

Miss Dimples will positively not recognize anyone detaining her for any length of time in order to procure a Herald-Republican, or anyone in any way whatever who stops her longer than a reasonable period in order to repeat the salutation correctly. It must be distinctly understood that Miss Dolly Dimples will immediately admit her identity if correctly saluted. There will be no need of holding her at any time, either between the hours that the contest is enforced or when it is not.

Russian Bandits Obtain Pearls, Diamonds and Jewelry Worth Several Million Roubles.

Czenstochwa, Russian Poland, Oct. 23.—During the night robbers entered the chapel here and despoiled the much revered image of the Virgin of the robe with its pearls, the diamond studded crown and many votive offerings of jewelry. The image itself was not damaged. The objects stolen have an intrinsic value of several million roubles. Today the chapel, which had closed up on the discovery of the outrage, was surrounded with a great crowd of weeping and praying men and women.

The convent at Czenstochwa is famous for its representation of the Virgin, and attracts probably a quarter of a million pilgrims annually. Formerly it was strongly fortified.

TAFT EARS TEXAS NEW ATTACK

Leaves Lone Star State Early This Morning for St. Louis, From Which Place He Will Sail Down Father of Waters

PRESIDENT HOARSE, SO TALKING IS CURTAILED

Brief Little Car-End Speeches Made at Several Stations Through Which the Train Passed in Spite of Bad Voice

AN UNFORTUNATE INCIDENT

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 23.—President Taft arrived here from Houston at 6:30 o'clock this afternoon. He was taken immediately to the state fair grounds, where he spoke.

Mr. Taft was so hoarse that he could be heard only at a short distance, despite heroic efforts. He spoke briefly tonight at a banquet at the Oriental hotel, and returned to his train, preparatory to leaving early tomorrow morning for St. Louis. From St. Louis on Monday afternoon the President will begin his pilgrimage of four days and five nights down the Mississippi river to New Orleans.

President Hoarse.

The President's voice began to grow husky after his speech at Corpus Christi yesterday, and broke down completely during his address at Houston this morning when he tried to make himself heard by a crowd which filled four intersecting streets for two blocks in either direction. According to Dr. Richardson, the President's physician, the hoarseness is due in large part to the let-up in speechmaking, which came during the President's visit to his brother's ranch, and he predicted that the vocal cords will round in a day or two. Up to this time the President's voice has kept in splendid shape.

On account of hoarseness, the President did not attempt to make a long speech either at the fair grounds or at the banquet, and confined himself in each instance to an expression of his appreciation of the warmth of his reception in Texas, and his appreciation of the people, his eighth day in the state.

Greatest of Texas.

"I was asked today," said the President at the fair grounds, "if I had any doubt by this time about Texas being a part of the Union. I replied that the only doubt I had was whether the Union was not a part of Texas."

On his way from Houston today the President traveled in the most populous section of the state, and the succession of prosperous-looking towns and cities was in striking contrast to the long stretches of barren cactus and mesquite brush plains in the west. At each station through which the train passed there was a large crowd to cheer the President. He made several brief little car-end talks, and at those places where no stop was scheduled he appeared on the platform to wave a response to the cheers sent up in his honor. At Hempstead the President spoke to several hundred pupils of the Prairie View Colored State Normal school, and at College Station addressed the students from the Agricultural and Mechanical college who were drawn up in uniforms.

Visit Marred by Tragedy.

An unfortunate incident of the President's trip to Dallas was the bayonetting of a deputy county clerk, Louis Reichenstein, by one of the militiamen on guard at the fair grounds. Reichenstein is said to be in the city hospital, and it was said he could not stand the strain of the journey before the President's train arrived at the fair grounds, and it is presumed that Reichenstein was trying to force a way through the crowd, although it is said he was behind the wire cable which the crowd broke when the soldier used his bayonet. The matter is in the hands of the authorities.

A vote of thanks was tendered J. G. Camp, project engineer, for his good services while in that position here. Mr. Camp will retire from the government service the 1st of April and will move with his family to Walla Walla, Wash., to reside in the future.

PUT UNDER BAN BY FRAUD ORDER

New Scheme for Selling or Buying Stock on Installment Plan.

Washington, Oct. 23.—A scheme for selling or buying stock on the installment plan has been put under the ban by the postoffice department by the issuance of a so-called "fraud order" against the Guarantees Securities company of Los Angeles.

According to allegations of postoffice inspectors, the company was engaged in the purchase and sale of stocks for people not having sufficient capital to pay the necessary money outright. Payment for the stock was accepted on the installment plan. Delivery of the stock was advertised to be made when all installments were paid. It was represented in the advertisement that the stock would be purchased at prevailing market prices and held until the receipt of the last installment.

It is alleged by the inspectors that no attempt was made to purchase the stock ordered, although the money of the purchasers would be retained. The stock in the stock ordered declined, the stock would be delivered to the purchaser when the last installment was paid, but not otherwise. The inspectors alleged that the concern was without financial stability.
